

Michael Hirschmann

Objective Senior level GIS Analyst position.

Experience 1991 - Present AAA Heathrow, FL

GIS Senior Data Analyst

- Manage data pertaining to a GIS System.
- Responsibilities include acquisition, conversion, preparation, verification, analysis, and dissemination of data for a street-level GIS database covering North America. Creating custom GIS tools for use in ArcGIS utilizing python and C#.
- Knowledge of GIS architecture, relational database concepts, and cartography.
- Advanced knowledge of GIS concepts and ESRI suite of software applications, including ArcMap, ArcCatalog and ArcGIS.
- Ability to perform complex tasks with high degree of accuracy and detail.
- Using Python, C# and SQL to create database functions.
- Solid PC skills including the use of Microsoft Office software.
- Ability to communicate effectively in verbal and written form
- Performed management duties from 2001 to 2011 (GIS Manager – Research)

1998 - 1991 Alexandria Drafting Company Alexandria, VA

Service Manager

- Managed all phases of production to ensure timely production of new, revised, and custom map products.
- Scheduled jobs, tracked hours, trained and prepared jobs while producing projects.
- Monitored and scheduled all map products from initiation to completion.
- Prioritized/tracked schedules for Photo Lab, Typesetting, and Graphics departments.
- Completed an internal management training program consisting of working four weeks in Automated Mapping, QA, Pre-press and Photo Lab departments.
- Supervised the Custom Mapping department, which consisted of seven cartographers.

Education 2005 - 2008 Webster University Longwood, FL

Bachelor of Arts in Management

1998 – 2003 Seminole Community College Sanford, FL

Associate of Arts in Liberal Studies

References References are available on request.